

The incomprehension of the question

Whose is the answer? If the question does not find a good answer? Maybe deep breath and let yourself realize. Maybe ... But if perhaps then gave up to a day to breathe deeply.

The problem of dialogue when everything is already said ... the problem of not seeing the question. The problem of giving an answer. And according to what you want right question. Take a deep breath and ask if the answer is in line with the question. Maybe, but if one day 100% predict the response one gets no questions asked ... so we must take a deep breath and realize that you never know if everything is. Everything like? As the questioner and who expected the response that in turn will reshape another question.

Therefore we must take a deep breath and breathe deeply again.
